To whom it may concern:

Every now and again we come in contact with an individual who is passionate and purposeful. Often their energy is observed and appreciated in a variety of expressions, and this is my experience of Rev Bridget McCann. Her fresh perspective and her desire to serve is a joy to observe. She has great energy and an ability to see the bigger picture when it comes to serving a community. She is creative and as a result has brought a number of original classes and rituals to New Dawn. She has a natural ability to develop materials in a manner that serves every participant.

She has a strong desire to work with ritual and bring forth deeper meaning in processes taken from the ancient Incas as well as a variety of other sources. After participating in a recent ritual with her, I can easily state every participant receives rich insights in just a matter of minutes. Her process is easy to follow and very rewarding.

Bridget has a strong desire to be in service and has served the New Dawn community well beginning a few years ago when she reached out to complete an internship. She continues to show up and connect with us at least once a month and the community members love her.

As she begins her work as a licensed minister, I am eager to see where Spirit directs her as these next few years are critical to her growth and development.

Bridget is always open to feedback and the opportunity to improve her skills. Her enthusiasm and compassion for others brings comfort to those she serves and creates a space of safety and support.

She demonstrates a solid knowledge of our principles and philosophy as well as many of the great teachers of new thought. She is grounded in this teaching and comes forth with grace, wisdom, and awareness.

I know Rev Bridget will be a great addition to any spiritual community she chooses. I believe her passion brings forth a strong purpose grounded in Science of Mind and a beautiful unfolding of amazing things to come.

Perfect blessings and joy,

Rev Jenn Wilde
